OUR VANS ...

MARGO: 1970 Dormobile

Margo would be ideal for 2 adults ... She's a really great van to drive, much easier than a split screen and a bit bigger too. She also has the pop top roof with 2 bunks in it (that kids love) being a vintage van and rather slow (but fun to drive) it's best not to get carried away with long distances.... She's a little bigger than Monty and therefore has more storage space... You can travel a little farther and faster in Margo ... We request that you cover 100 miles max per day..We can supply a drive away awning for Margo.

Margo has a 3 point seatbelt on both front seats and also a 3 point seatbelt in the rear as well as a lap belt. You would need to check what is required for your individual child/ toddler seat, there are too many for us to be able to say. If you are nearby you can of course come by and try it. We've had numerous people with kids hire the vans with no issue .

Margo also has 2 buddy seats which are rear facing and can be used when eating at the table... She has bunks suitable for small children in the pop top roof...

MONTY (1964 Split screen)

Monty was created in 1964 so he's almost 50 years old... He has a 1600 cc engine and tootles along at about 40 mph ... He can seat 6 passengers but probably best to make this 4 or less so he can get up hills

He's is only really suitable for local hires, he's not exactly a long distance cruiser. It's best not to get carried away and to just plan to do 80 miles or less a day... its more enjoyable.. He's fun to drive when you get used to him which normally takes an hour or two.. Everyone loves him and you'll get lots of waves and smiles (you'll do about 10 smiles per mile) and if people flash their lights at you it's just to say 'hello'...!

Monty being a 1964 split screen is a little smaller and has less storage space than the later bay window campers , Margo and Bluebell...

On the day of hire I do a practice drive with you in order to familiarise you with the controls and his little quirks i.e main beam is operated using a foot pedal...

BLUEBELL: (1969 Earl Bay Window)

Bluebell is a little easier to drive than Monty, both are great fun and you get lots of smiles and waves as you go by. Bluebell is a lowered just a little so more stable and better round corners... She's a little bigger than Monty and therefore has more storage space... You can travel a little farther and faster in Bluebell ... We request that you cover 100 miles max per day..

HARRY:

Is a modern T5 campervan and as such much of the above doesn't apply to hiring him.

Has a ¾ bed in the main body of the van and a large double bed in the pop top. He is easy to drive , with a 2.4 diesel engine , loads of space , large pop up roof and plenty of space and equipment. He's great to look at but obviously doesn't have the vintage charm of the older vans. If you wish to go further afield (UK only) this is the van for you.

How the vans are equipped
